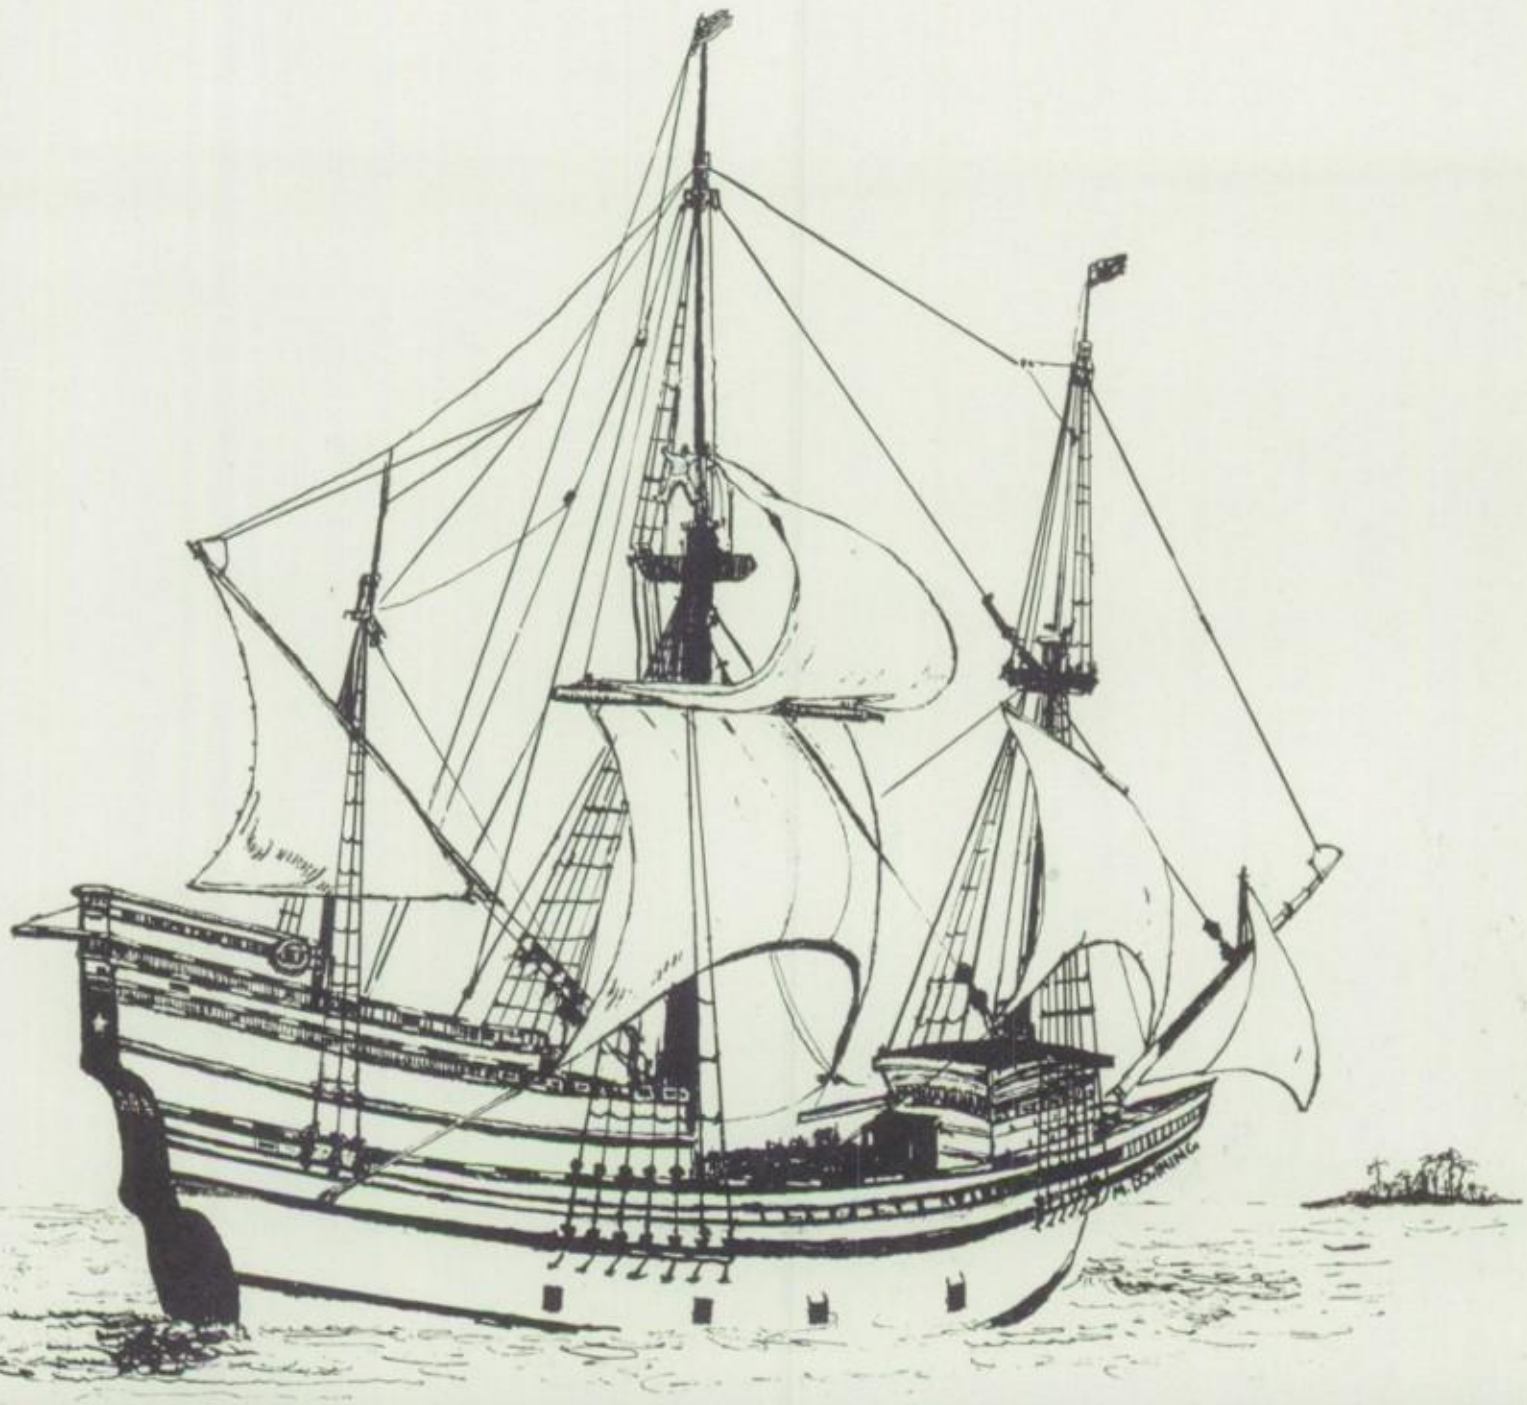
The Great Race

The Mayflower was 113 feet from end to end; she carried 102 brave souls from Holland to "The New World."



The Great Race

The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong. —Ecclesiastes

America's race with destiny began, appropriately enough, with a shot heard round the world. The speed of a bullet has characterized us as a nation: we want faster communication, speedier transportation, and quicker conveniences. No longer can we wait to place a call through an operator; direct dialing is our bag. The gas crisis hasn't dampened our desire to play Indianapolis 500 around the parking lot. And TV without instant-on or regular ovens without microwave attachments or perculators that aren't Mr. Coffee quality . . . well, those gadgets just won't cut it.

And what about us? Why we raced into life crying, "Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!" We couldn't wait to crawl, to walk, to run. Like our native country, we've been in a rush to progress toward better tomorrows from our earliest recollections. But what is that tomorrow? Where are we going? Is our Great Race with life a thrilling contest which pits us against obstacles and threats, then cheers us to final victory at the end, or is it just a great rat race?

Too often there is no greatness. We say with T. S. Eliot, "I have measured out my life with coffee spoons."

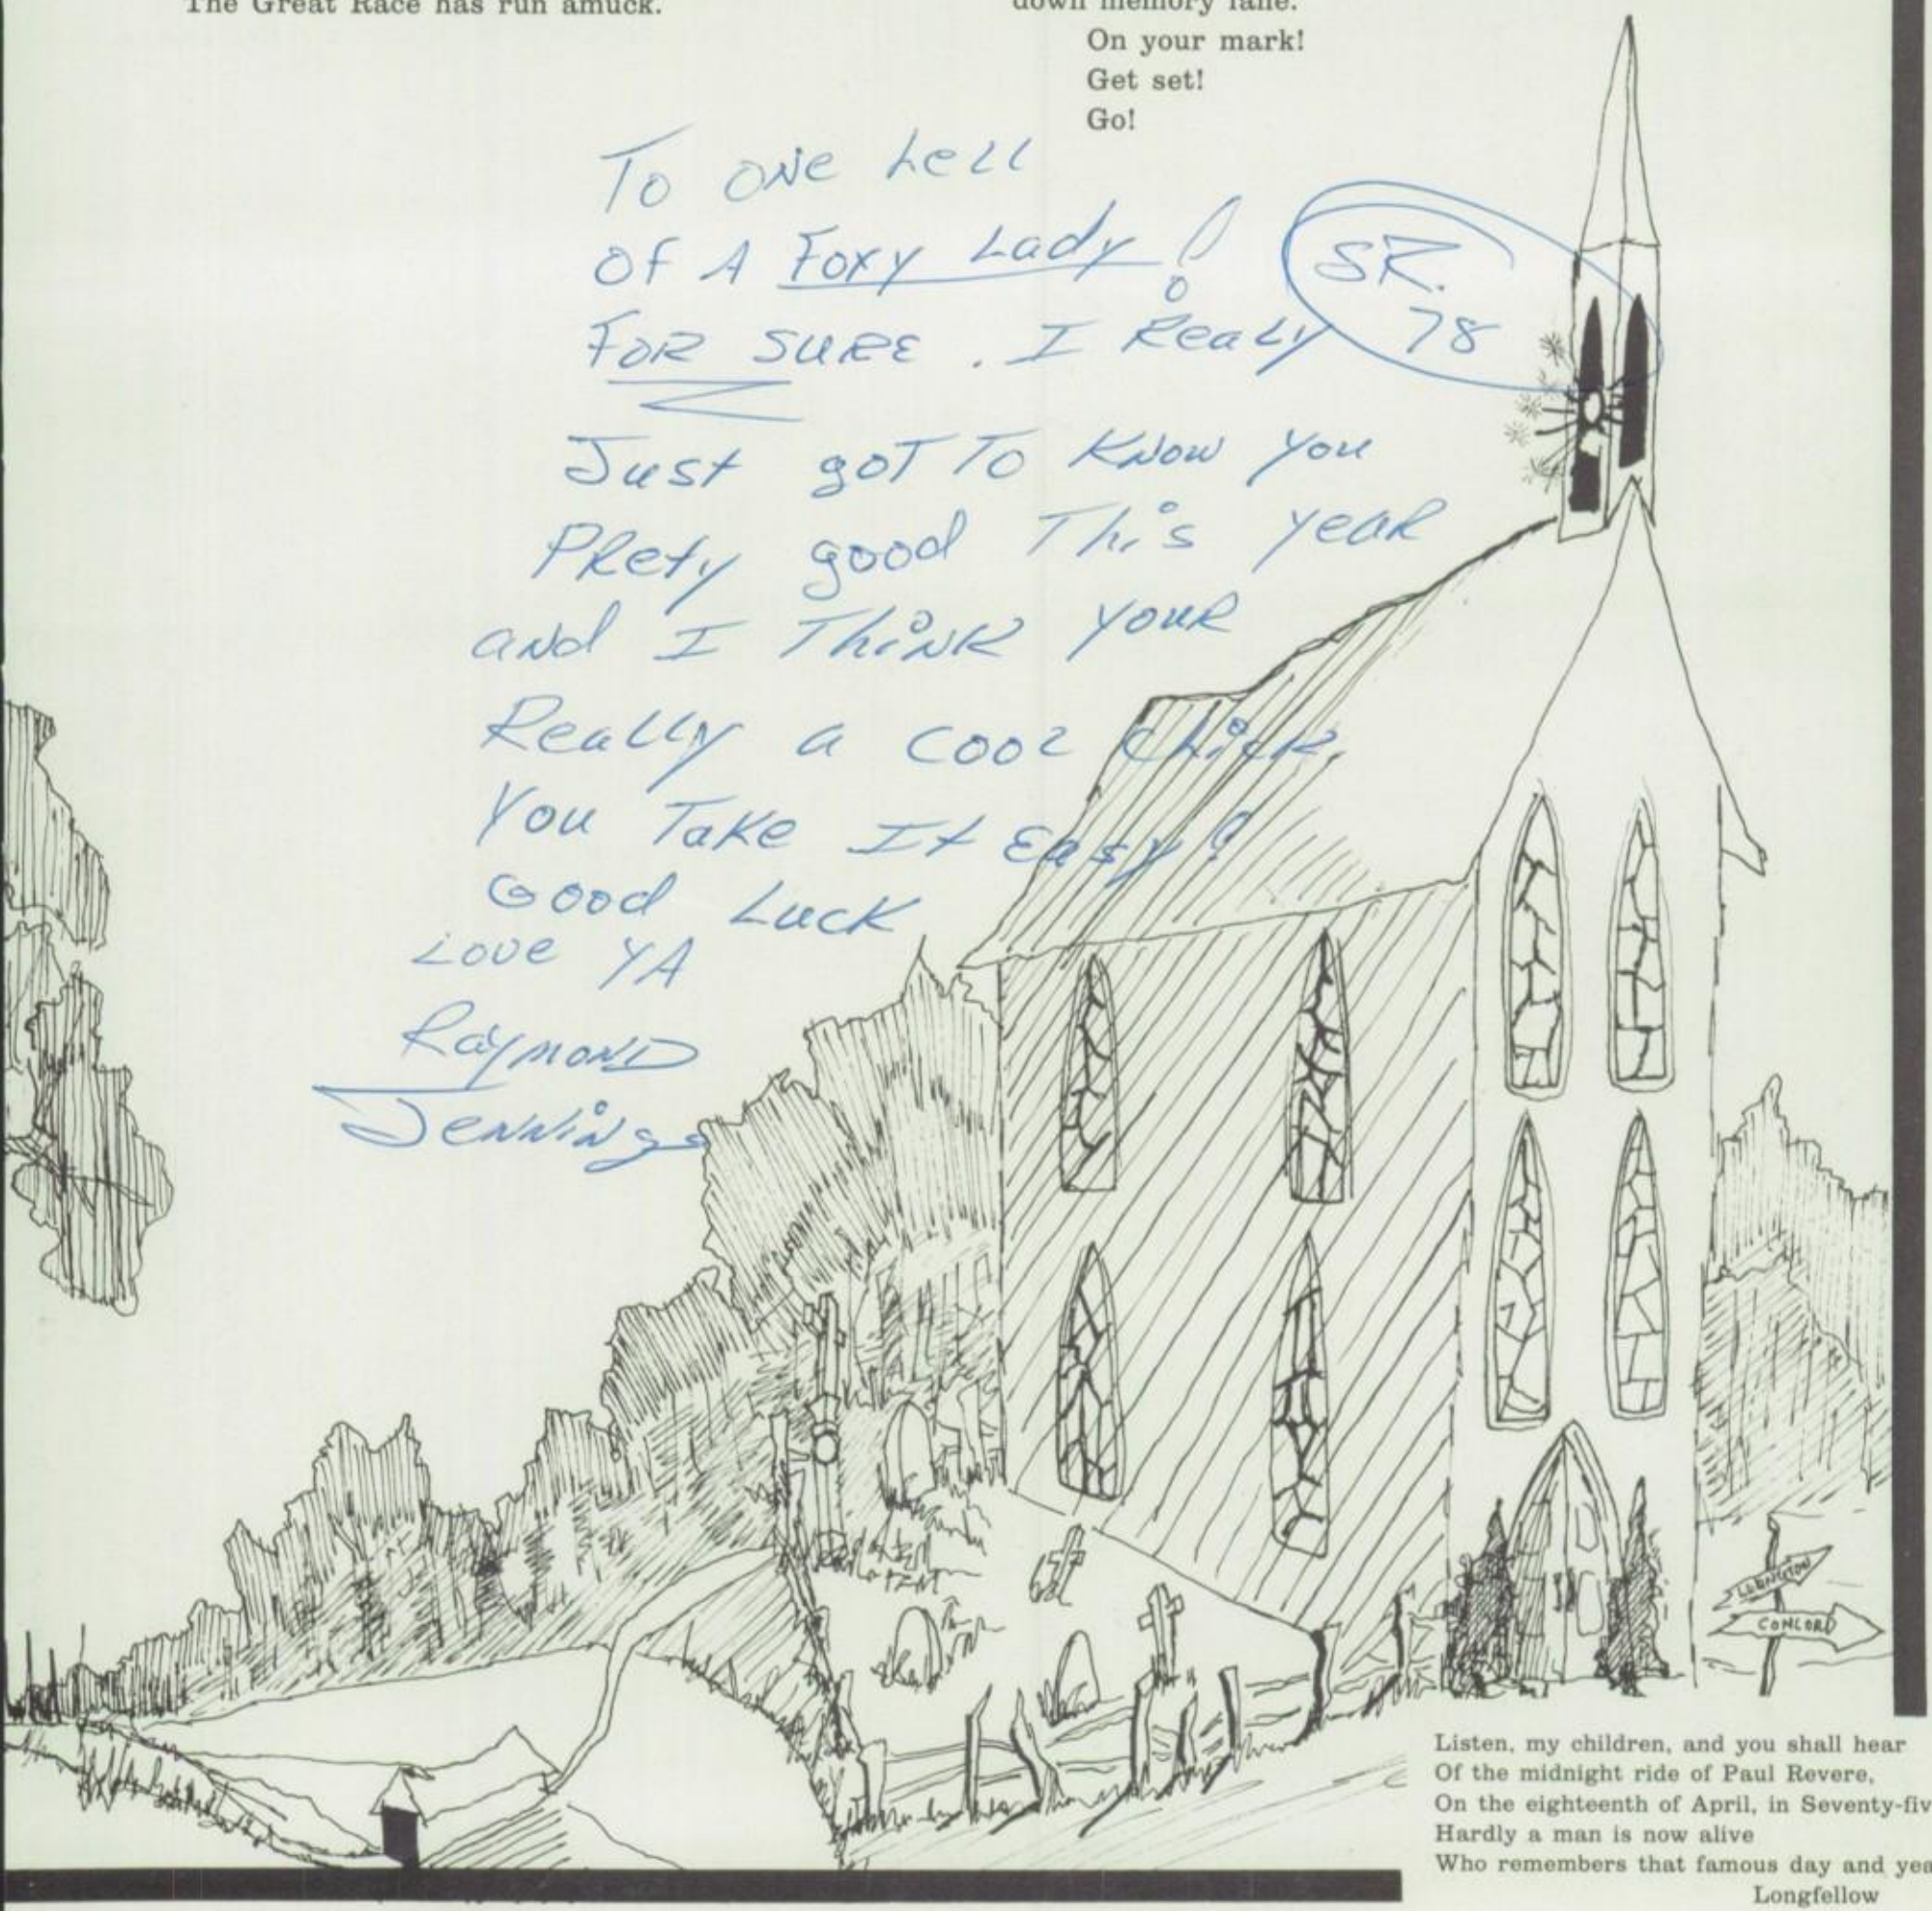
Our day begins too often with the frantic realization that we're late for school. Breakfast is a Pepsi gulped on the way to the campus. The principal is an ogre who gives out an unexcused tardy. The teacher has given a test first hour and it can't be made up. Lunch is the only bright spot, but you discover that your steady has first period lunch and you have the second period. On your way to your job, somebody runs into your car, and you find you're going to have to work the night of the big ZZ Top concert. The day ends with a fight at home and you collapse into bed an hour late and a dollar short; homework isn't finished, conflicts aren't resolved, and who really cares, anyhow?

The Great Race has run amuck.

The Spartan for '76 hopes to help you regain your composure and get you back on the track and running to complete your great race in style. This year—our Country's 200th birthday—we're breathlessly eager to take our place in the starting blocks, adrenalin flowing, minds ready to overcome any barrier, bodies primed for victory. We hope to give you 1976 at Bixby High, a neatly wrapped, accurate, wonderful memory of a very special year with very special people all running a very special race called Life.

So get your imagination's racing gear out, dust off your mental track shoes, and let's get it on with this race down memory lane.

On your mark!
Get set!
Go!



Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the eighteenth of April, in Seventy-five;
Hardly a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year.
Longfellow

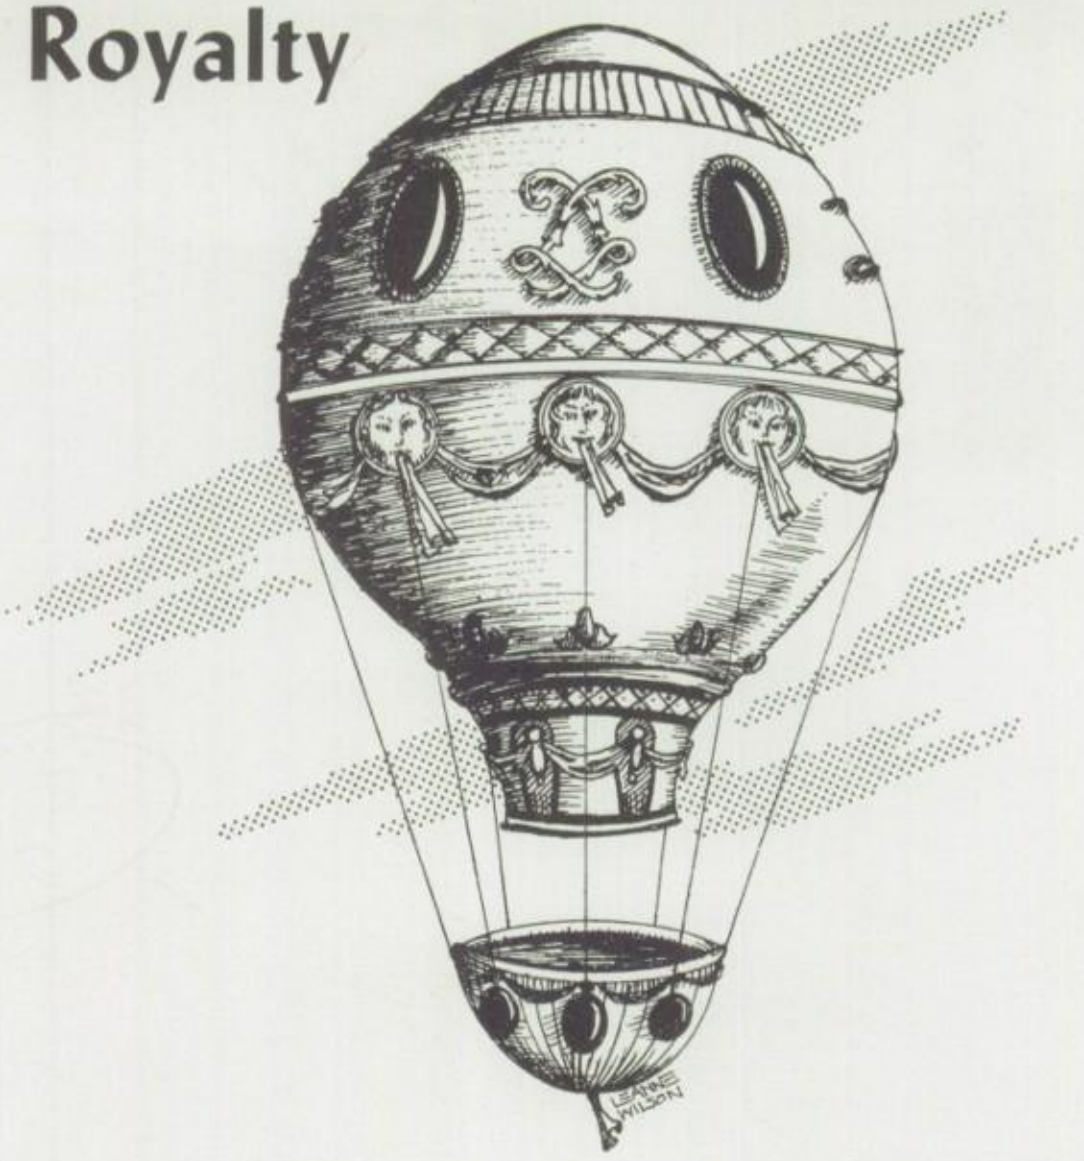
Race For Royalty



The balloon was first invented by Jacques Etenne and Joseph Michel Montgofier. It was later perfected by J. A. C. Charles. It was a new concept in the world of flying.

There is always room for beauty: memory
A myriad of lovely blossoms may enclose,
Bur, whatsoe'er hath been, there still must be Room for another rose. —Florence Earle Coates

Her beauty is like that of an autumn sunset. She has a radiant glow about her. But in today's race for royalty's renown, beauty is only a part of being a queen. This generation considers qualities such as scholarship, poise, charm, personality, and talent as necessary for queenship as good looks.

Scholastic ability plays a major role in the life of the high school queen. The "dumb blonde" has given way to the "brainy beauty," and poise and charm are geared to intelligent behavior as well as cool good looks. These admired characteristics practically guarantee a girl who has them the key to a future happiness because they manifest an inward competence and security and a genuine interest in others.

Talent is a blessing. The contemporary queen recognizes her talent and uses it to the fullest extent . . . not only singing in competition for a crown, but leading a church youth choir or adding a good voice to the school chorus . . . not only playing the piano or twirling a baton for the judges, but accompanying soloists and ensembles and leading the Pride of Bixby High as it performs at football halftimes.

Finally, personality is perhaps the most important aspect of being a queen. The girl that has a great personality has collected all the other traits — poise, charm, scholarship, talent — and has transformed them into a unique individual who is gracious, confident, attractive, and useful to her home. school, and community.

Being honored as a school queen involves hard work — selecting materials and patterns, sewing, giving up valuable time to decorate and stuff backboards, and fighting the nerves that threaten to erupt at any time if not held tightly in check. But the problems are worth it. They must be, because there is no shortage of girls who are racing for the glory that is reflected in the gold of a trophy or the blush of a rose.

Salutatorian

The honor of being a top scholar is one of the highest awards a person can receive during the high school years. This year all girls students were chosen. Lisa Cole, an outstanding student and athlete hasn't yet decided where she will study, but is thinking about a career in mathematics. Lesa Gadberry will attend OSU in the fall. Susan Bailey will also attend OSU, but hasn't yet decided what she will major in. Macki Eubanks plans to major in accounting at OSU.

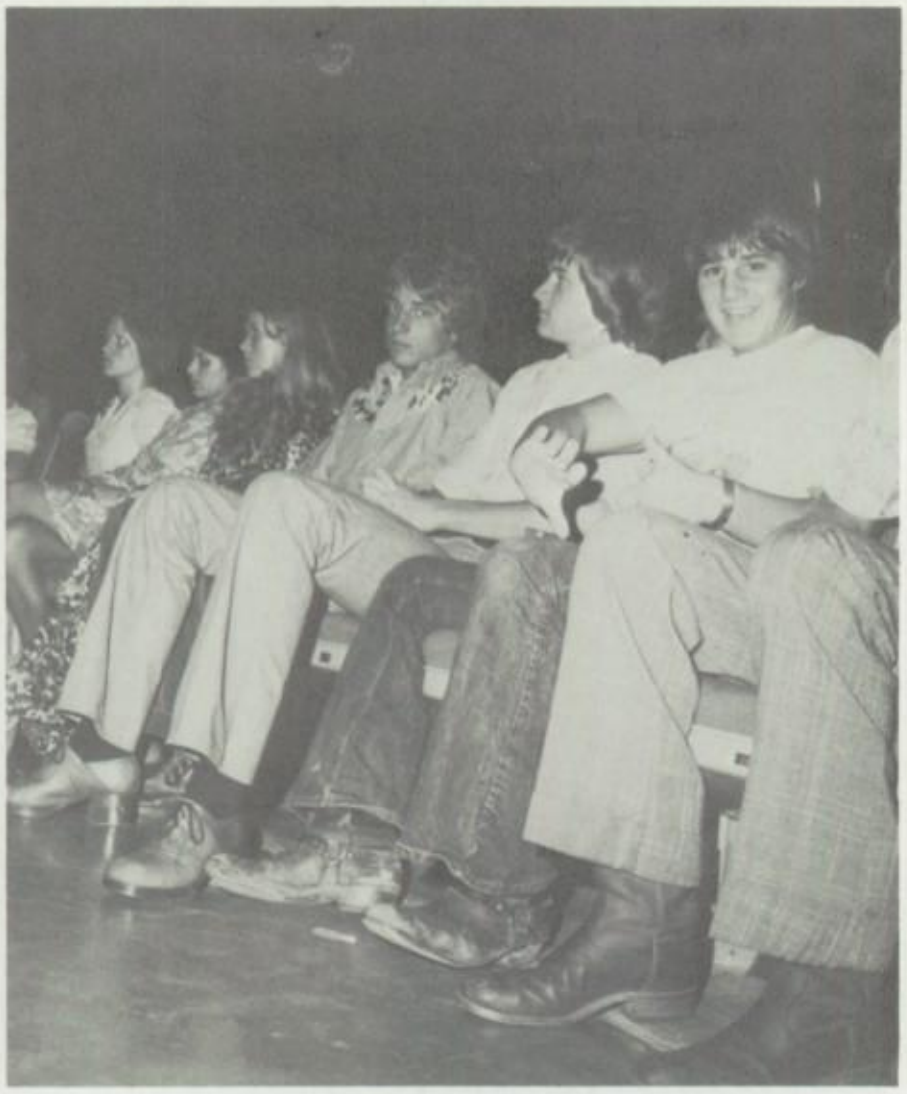
Race For Togetherness



Where the willingness is great, the difficulties cannot be great.

Nicolo Machiavelli

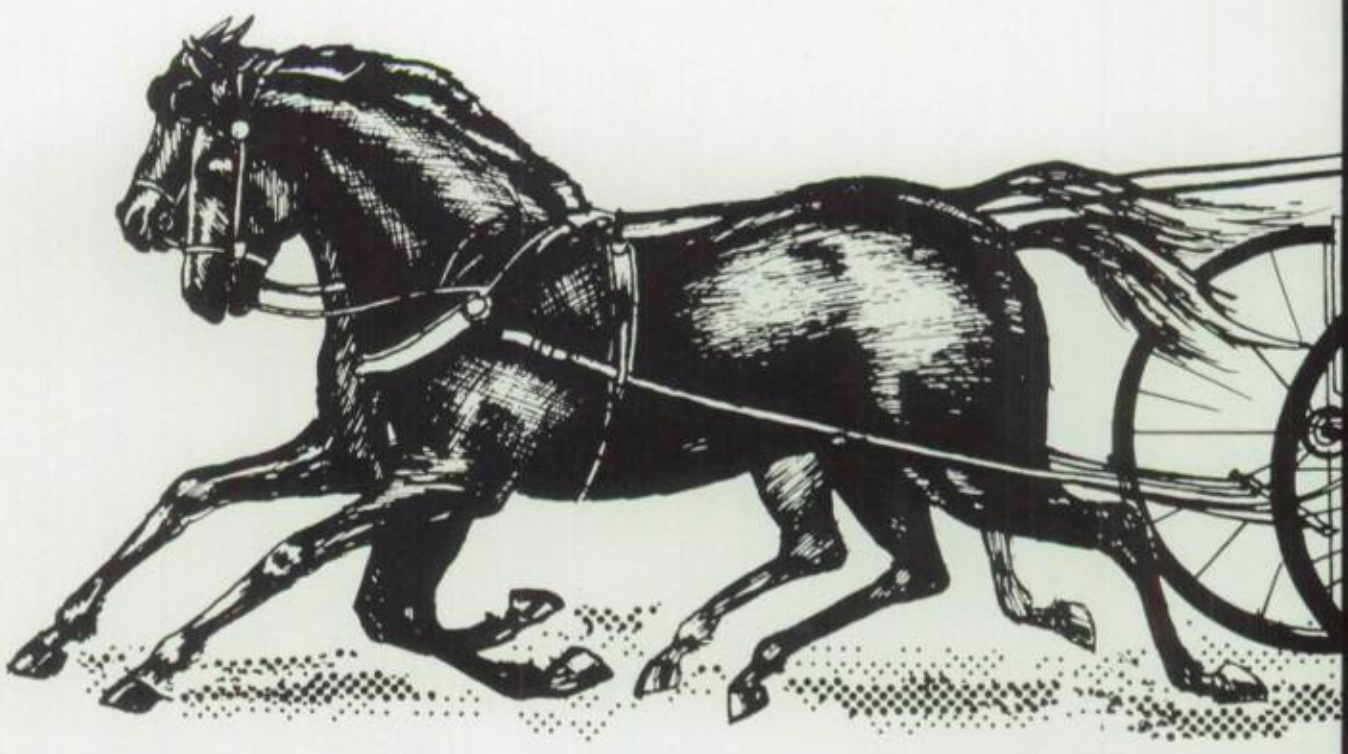
Organizing is as American as apple pie and flag-waving. We couldn't even get the Pilgrims off the MAYFLOWER without a group meeting and a Compact-signing. Throughout our history democracy has been the cornerstone and organization the foundation of American life.

In school it is no different. The organizations we enjoy daily are set up to train us in the basics of democracy—getting along with others, moving toward a common goal, cooperating to achieve a worthwhile project, establishing an appreciation for our own and other's skills.

The training we receive in school organizations lasts a lifetime; it is fun, friendships, fellowship and faith in the American way of doing things in a nutshell. Often, in fact, it is the "kick" at the end of the high school race that propells us optimistically into a future filled with opportunity.

Through the completing of our organizational responsibilities we learn respect for time-honored methods. We learn to budget time, to pace ourselves, to be responsible for our own equipment and promises. By working closely with adult sponsors, we achieve a rare relationship and appreciation for their efforts.

In short, the Race for Togetherness that makes our school organizations great makes us better, too.



Developed in the early 1700's, the carriage was characterized by light weight, flexibility, and elegant design. Carriages were first imported to America from England and France. They were not manufactured here until about 1740, but after that time America produced more horse-drawn vehicles than any other country in the world.

French Club Aids The Blind

The French Club combined their efforts with the Spanish Club and collected food and clothing for St. Vienney's Girls' Home, and food for needy families at Thanksgiving. They also took art and craft supplies to the Little Light House School for the Blind. Later in the year, a party at Crystal's was planned.

Choir Sings Its Way To Enid

Vocal girls practice hard at their music.

Under the direction of Miss Lynn Gentis the vocal department sang for the football banquet, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Optimist Club. They participated in the District Contest at Bartlesville, State Contest at OSU and the Tri-State Contest at Enid. They sold jewelry to help pay for contest expenses. The girls worked hard and many times they gave up their own time to practice for the contest. They deserve recognition.

They took special polls to find out what the students thought of fooseball and professional athletes. The co-editors were M. Roberts and C. Wadsworth and the staff consisted of fourteen members.

Working with the people on this year's yearbook staff has made my junior year rewarding and has made me feel more a part of Bixby High School. The responsibility of being editor has taught me a lot of things, including patience and endurance. There have been many times when I wondered if it was all worth it, but as I remember the times when deadlines were met and I look forward to seeing the faces of the students when they received their book I got excited and kept working at it for you.

I would like to personally thank the following people for assisting the yearbook in some way or another: Mr. Sparks for the typewriter, it is great! Coach Bayles for putting up with us on those all too familiar picture taking days! Mr. Hood and Mrs. Lee for assisting us with the junior high! Mr. Fultz for the use of the darkroom! Mr. Ernie Dunning and Terry Cooper for valuable pictures! The entire faculty for letting us out of class to work on yearbook when we needed it most. All these things are appreciated by us, but most of all we would like to thank the student body for without you to make it, there would be no yearbook.

Putting a yearbook together is not quite as easy as it may seem. Early in the year the race to meet deadlines began. Ads were sold to defray costs, and preliminary sales were kicked off. The staff has worked diligently to stick to the course and page by page we have succeeded.

We hope that each and every page is enjoyable for you, and we hope the memories celebrated in these 200 pages recall the happiest of times for you.

We extend our thanks to the faculty and administration for their help, cooperation and encouragement.

Race For Victory

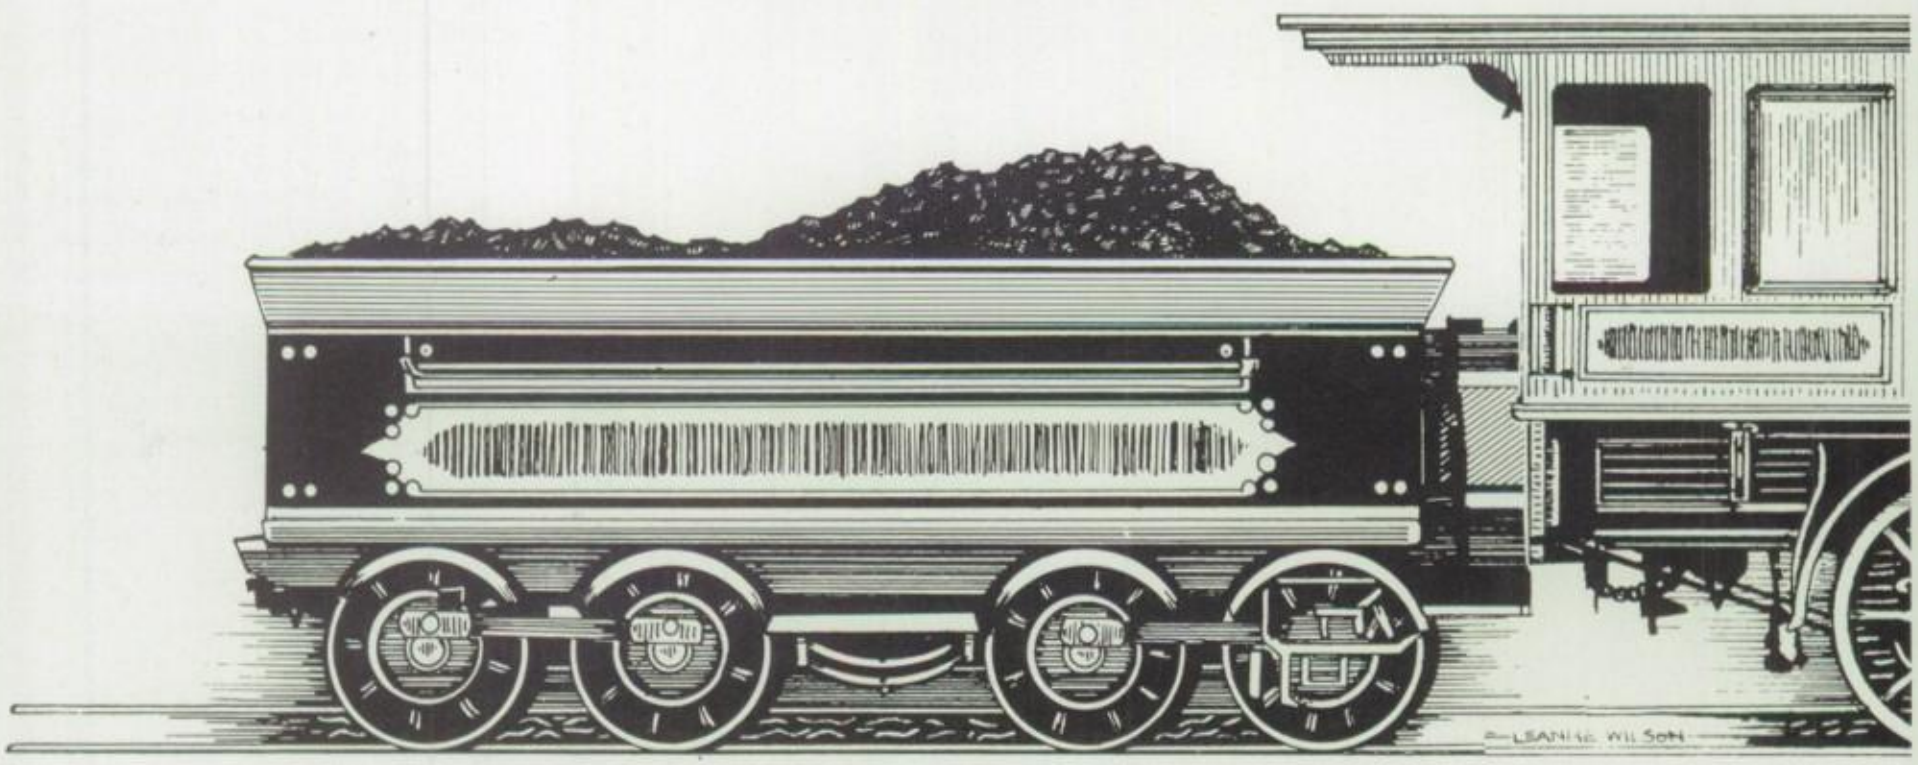
Wherefore seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, . . . and let us run with patience the race that is set before us.

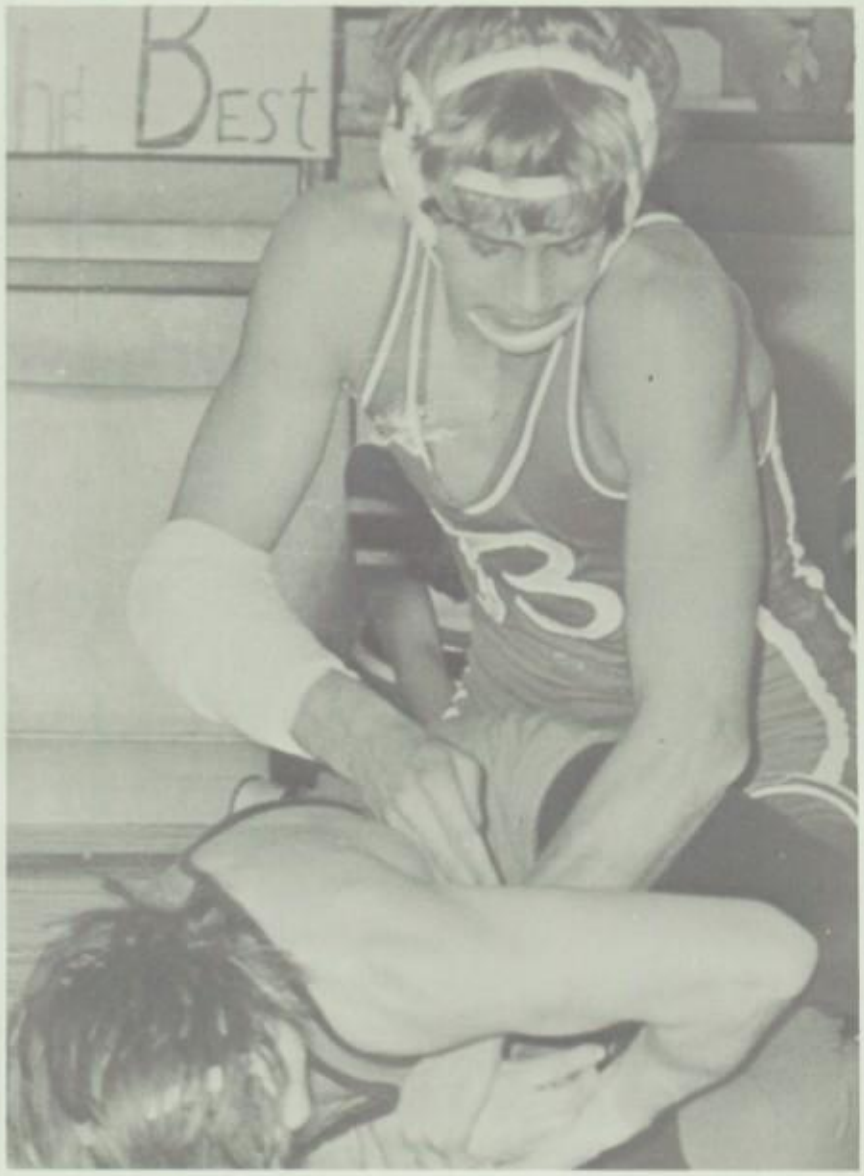
—Hebrews

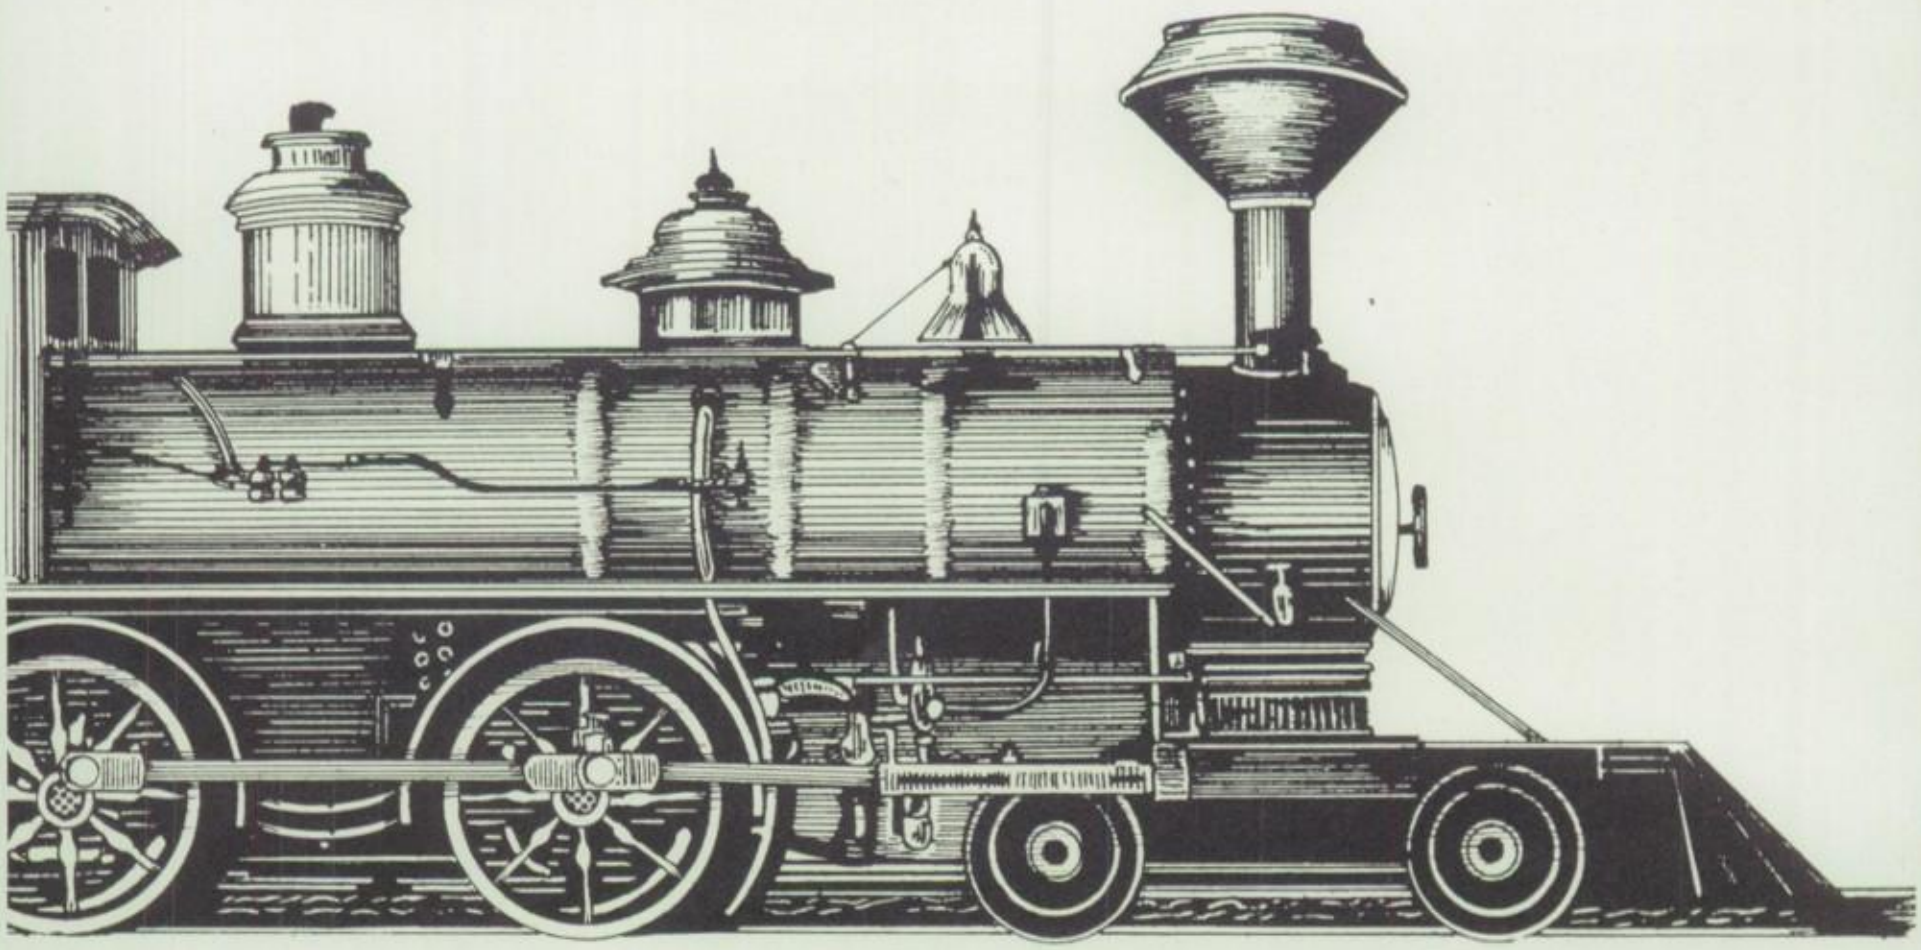
The athlete has geared his mind to triumph. As he runs the great race he is always striving to succeed, to be the victor; but more important, the athlete is learning to be a good sport, to take the fumbles along with the tallies. From his experience on the field, track, court, or mat he acquires a special ability to rebound from a loss, knowledge he can use later in the race that is his life.

The athlete's appeal is also important. Once he was the Greek Olympic type, crowned with a laurel wreath and honored by all men. Now he has blossomed into the "Fonzie," a cool-dude type wrapped in a letter jacket and noted for his nonchalance.

Although the image has changed, the athlete remains the same inside; dedicated to victory, hungry for success, and impatient to get on with the race for whatever prize is his goal.







Train . . . a thing of the past, once transported people from town to town. It first ran on rails in 1803. Thirty-five years later the trains could run a mile in fifty-eight seconds.

Matmen Boast Returning State Champ

Senior Randy Osborn anchored a squad that took State runner-up honors a year ago and showed the strength and stamina to repeat the coup this year.

Jumping out to a 3-1 record before Christmas, the Spartan matmen placed four men in the finals of the January Jenks tourney and came in second to Duncan with Osborn a first place finisher.

Another highlight of the year for two of the starters was an opportunity to wrestle a Japanese All-Star during a guest appearance in the United States of the Oriental squad. Bruce Winsett and Randy Osborn were both decisioned by their Japanese opponents, but both found the free-style mat experience exciting.

Coach Royce Skocdopole has led his wrestlers down the stretch to mat excellence during his five years, and he shows every sign of continuing to win the race.

Race for Fame

Oh, who shall lightly say that fame
Is nothing but an empty name,
When but for those, our mighty dead,
All ages past a blank would be.

Joanna Baillie

The race for personal recognition has been run throughout our nation's 200-year history by people whose vivid dreams burned so brightly that they gave everything they had to light the torch of public approval so vital to the success of their visions.

It was run by the Pilgrims at Plymouth; by Washington's cold, hungry soldiers at Valley Forge; by Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg; by eager Land Rushers at Oklahoma Territory's opening.

The desire to win acceptance for a pet project has taken America from the bottom of the sea to the top of the highest mountain; from the rigors of the training field to the Olympic gold-medal stand; from Earth to the Moon.

It has caused doctors to explore the innermost regions of the body and the mind; scientists to split the atom; lawyers to seek the truest sense of justice, and teachers to strive for better ways to provide quality education for students.

And what of the students themselves? The race for recognition has caught them up in its surge, too. Perhaps, in fact, they are the leaders.

That young gentleman making paper airplanes from the pages of his PSAT test just may turn out to be a sprinter in the race for aviational achievement. And one of the fellows on the bottom level of the Senior pyramid may put on a burst of speed one of these days and wind up on top of things. . .a champion flagpole sitter at the very least. Or that young lady who seems to be at the bottom of the trash heap today; why, tomorrow her race for recognition may lead her to the Miss America Pageant. . .Miss Green Country?

All joking aside, these students are among the thousands of young Americans who will leave their mark on their communities, states and world. Some of their dreams of recognition that are only fantasies today will be fact tomorrow as their race for recognition reaches the finish line called "Fame."

Bicycles were first ridden at Paris. They were improved by Baron Von Drais, and were called "Dandy Horses." Cranks and pedals were fitted to the wheel in 1869. The "High Wheel Bicycle" had ball bearings, wire wheels, and ribbon tires.

Race For Individuality

While I can make no claim for having introduced the term "rugged individualism," I should be proud to have invented it. It has been used by American leaders for over a half-century in eulogy of those God-fearing men and women of honesty whose stamina and character and fearless assertion of rights led them to make their own way in life.

Herbert Hoover

The uniqueness of the individual. In those five words lie all the variety and color of life, for they express the pleasure that is found in being one of a kind, as, indeed, all of us are.

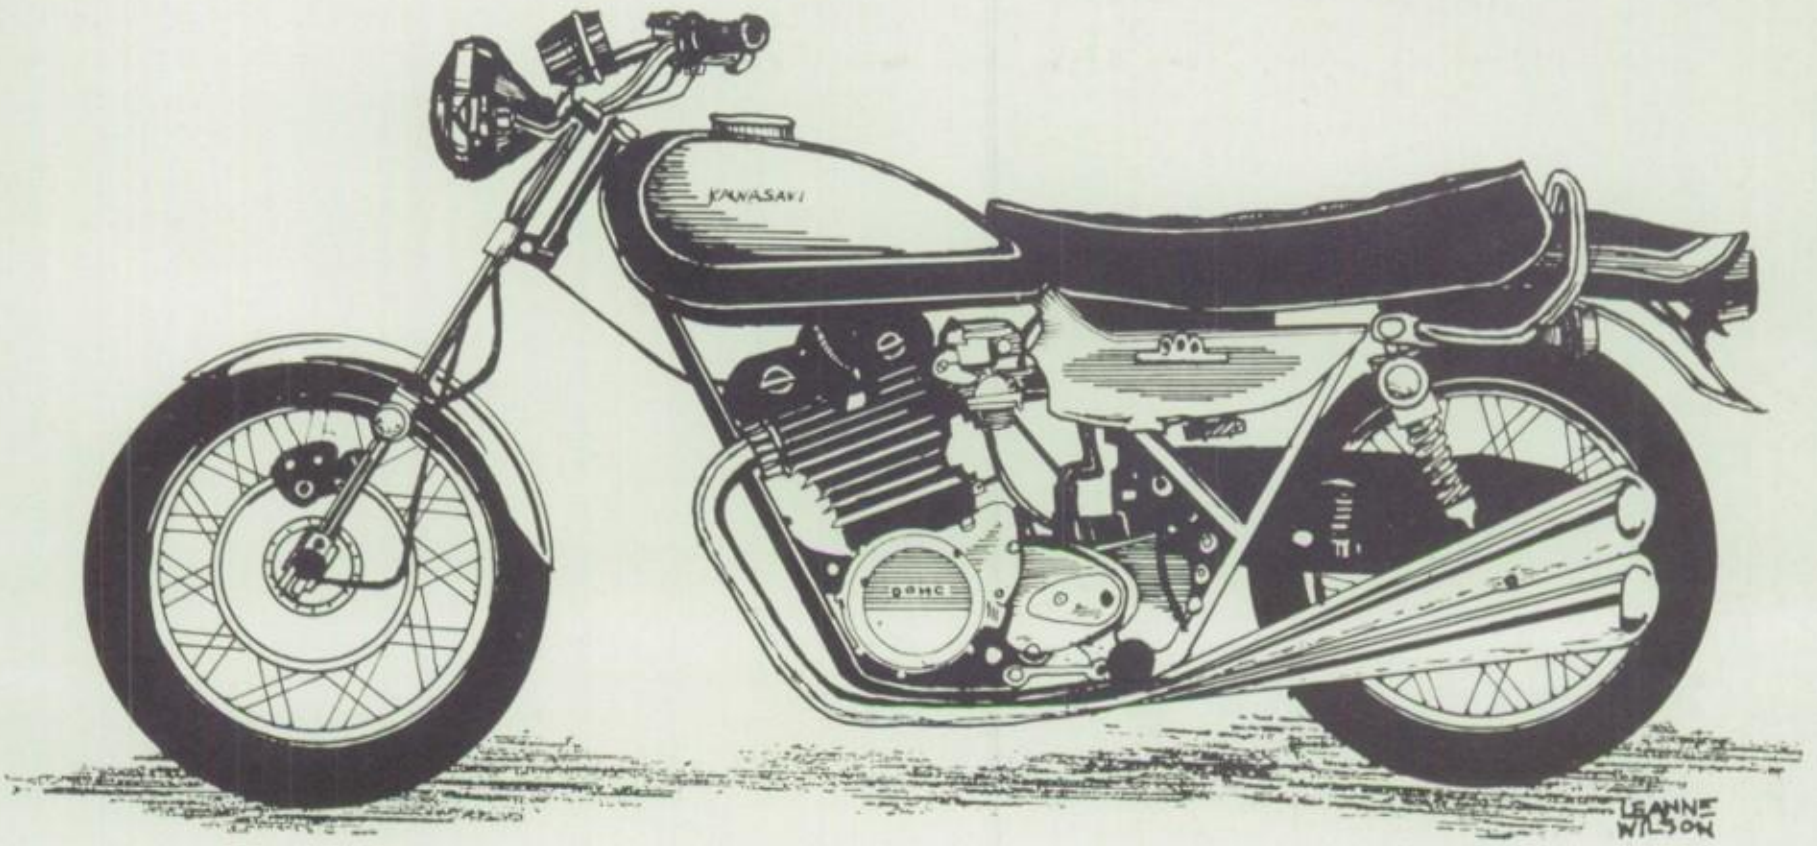
The Great Race for Individuality is run by every man, woman, and child from the moment of birth. It is the one race everyone can win, because it requires nothing but the willingness to be oneself.

THE SPARTAN wishes to call special attention to the uniqueness of two BHS individuals who have been featured in this year's book: Leanne Wilson and David Barrett.

Leanne, a Senior, is looking toward a career in commercial art. Her pictures on many of our division pages show the detail and accuracy that are such an integral part of her style.

David, a Junior, is the flip side of the coin. He draws linework that is sometimes strange, often somewhat irreverent, and always humorous. Popular with David is the writing of Tolkien and the attitude of Marx--Groucho or Karl, take your choice!

From both students have come division page art that enriches the book. The staff wishes to express our gratitude to these two people for their help, and our congratulations to them for running way out in front in their Race for Individuality.



The motorcycle is the result of the adaptation of a gasoline engine to the propulsion of bicycles. First built in the 1890's, motorcycles usually had only one cylinder.

"I slipped into my jeans,
Laughing hard and feeling mean.
I took a spit at the moon--
It's all in this luney tune."
Alice Cooper

The changes that have revolutionized America since 1958-1959 have resulted in Us.
And who are we?
We're the coolest group to come along.
We don't use names--just handles like "Midnight Flyer."
We get into "decent" things--foosball and long hair.
In our Great Race to get where we're going, we've learned to stand up and say what we feel.
We've learned to be ourselves,
Do what we want and not care what other people think.
We're not out to please anyone but ourselves and to do what seems right to us.
We are condemned by those before us for wanting to make a change.
We're rebels in their eyes, but who's to say
That when we take their places, a change for the better won't occur?
Things Change

Things change and it's not the same, things change.
Strange how they rearrange.
But things change.
I'm not the same like I was before.
I'm something less; I'm something more.
You're always in another time or space.
Things change without warning till you slowly realize--
You're not the same like you were before.

Trivia

You can always tell a Senior
By his stately cap and gown.
You can always tell a Junior
By the way he struts a-round.
You can always tell a Freshman
By his timid looks and such.
You can always tell a Sophomore,
But you can't tell him much.

ABOVE CENTER, Dennis Wing grimmaces as he hears Mrs. Earsom give the correct quiz answers. Sophomores worked on oral book reports, short stories, grammar and theme writing under Mrs. Earsom and Mrs. Bull who shared a large room divided by a sound-deadening curtain. Besides pushing notes under the curtain and challenging the system generally. Sophs like Jeff Boman and Doug Thompson, learned some English.

BELOW LEFT, Mr. Jingle Bones and the "bone tree" adorn Mr. Earsom's room before Christmas.

Mr. Earsom, long a favorite figure in BHS, changes his tiny skeleton each season. Today it may be Granny Bones, tomorrow, the "Easter Boney." And the same variation in interest and fun applies to his teaching.

Class activities in Sophomore Biology include drawing, raising plants, dissecting a myriad set of unwilling creatures, and establishing a camaraderie that will exist for the rest of the students' lives.

Before the Christmas season Sophomores will be initiated to "Christmas comes but once a year;/Hear them Santa Claus Bayles-uh!/With them comes a season of cheer;/Hear them Santa Claus Bayles-uh!" Once they have mastered the proper attitude and rhythm, these Tenth Graders will be able to join the rest of the student body in the chant. It's all in fun and fun for all.

And the students respond. Just look at that nice normal Sophomore Biology class at the LEFT, working and loving it.

BELOW Cathy Weems and Leslie Tackett get sick. They never knew a starfish looked like that before.

In Memoriam

MARK ADKINS

1960-1975

Sugar, Spice, And Sadness.

The Sophomores have experienced a year of growing, changing, developing. In some ways it has been a sad year: behind is childhood's freedom; today's responsibilities rest heavy; tomorrow's challenges loom close by.

Even though they have stepped into another world, the Sophomores have made the most of this year, and they have shown the potential to handle their future with competence.

Race For Understanding

"A teacher effects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops.

—Henry Brooks Adams

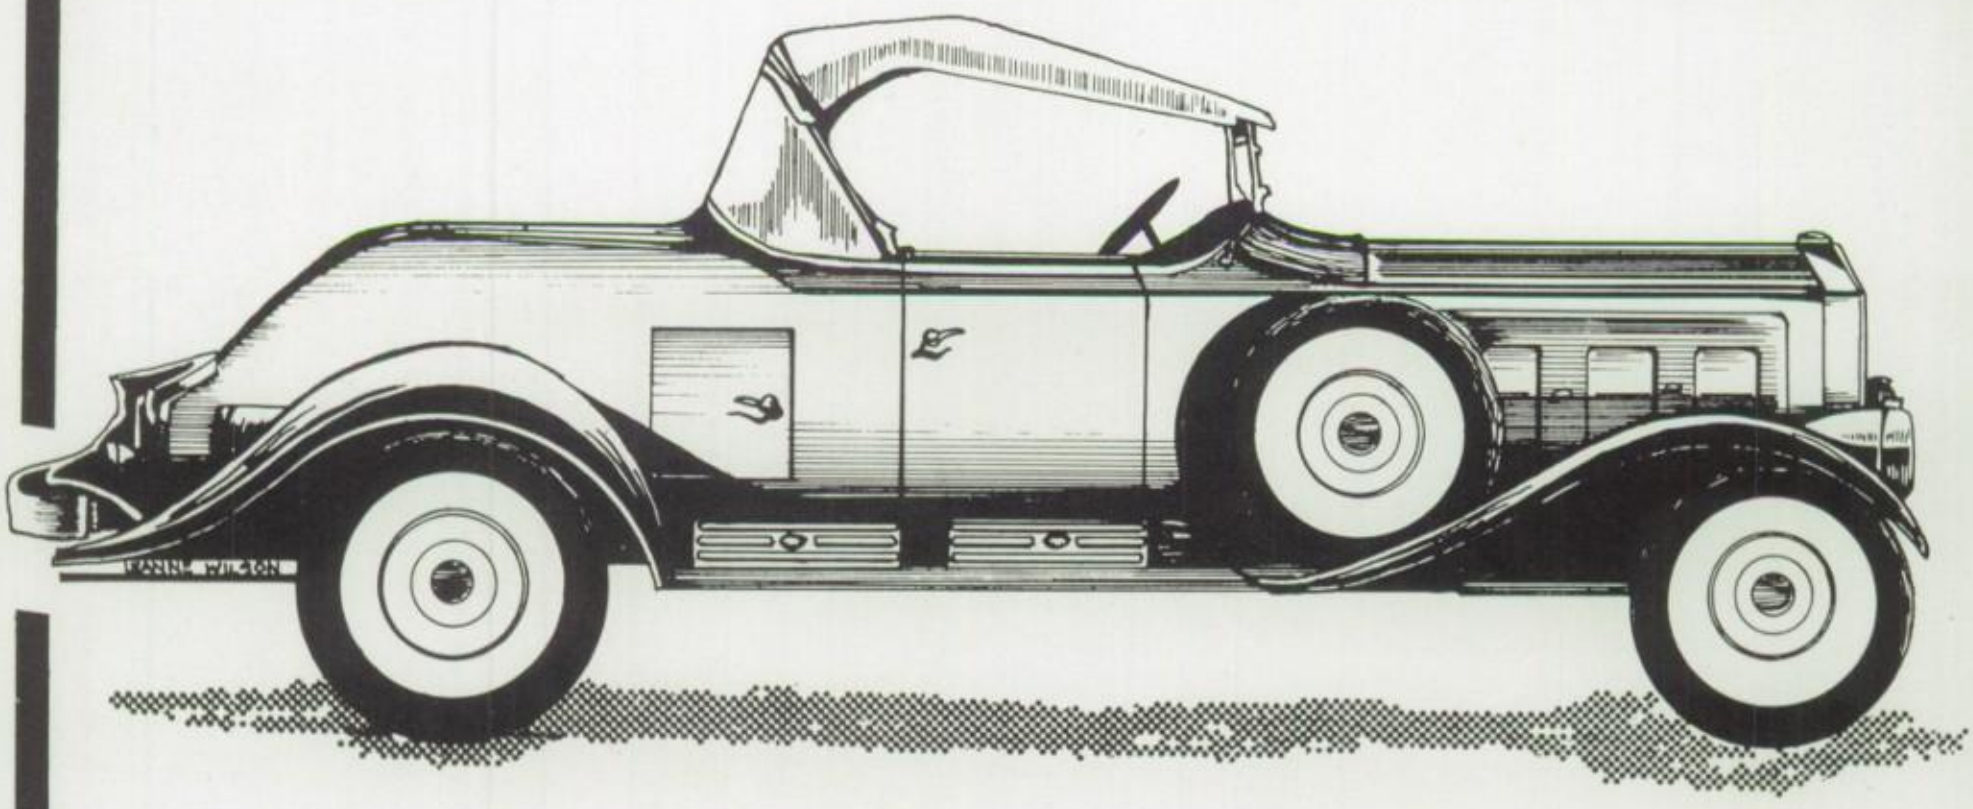
Believe it or not, teachers are more than monsters who give out tests and send home progress reports. They are people like you, and they have feelings. They work hard at their jobs which, all too often, don't end at 2:30; even weekends are spent grading papers or averaging grades.

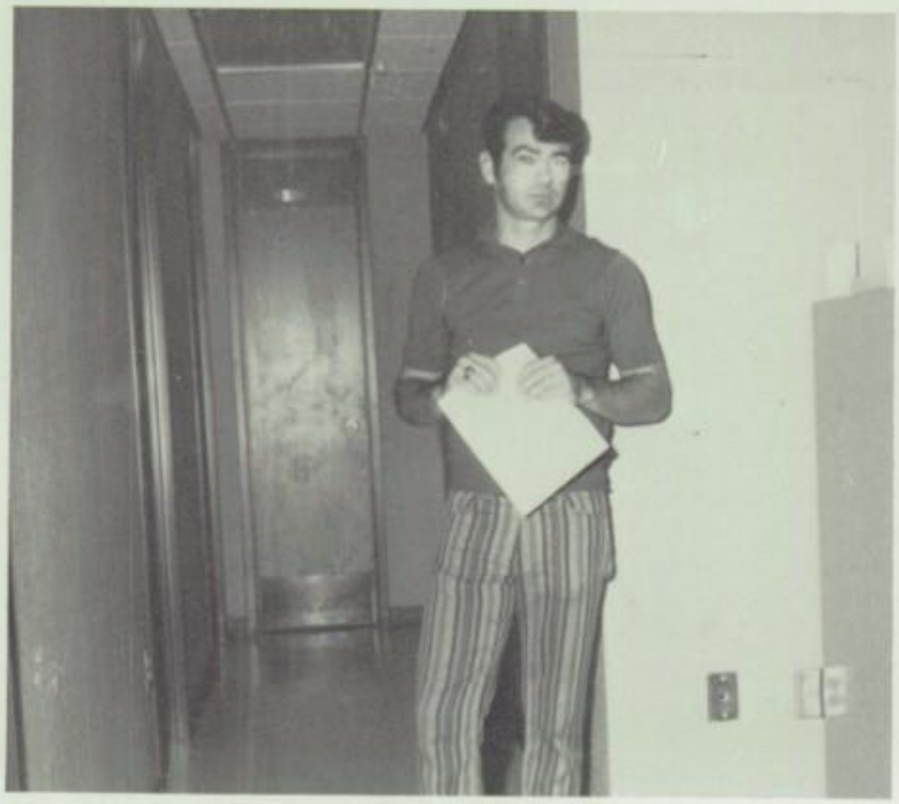
Teachers hold a bigger, more important responsibility than most other professionals, for they are responsible for training tomorrow's leaders by helping today's students find their potential and develop and refine it.

America's Bicentennial year is a salute to the progress and continuance of knowledge as well as a time to recognize the political and social leaps and bounds we've made over 200 years. The torch of learning is passed from generation to generation is handed on by the dedicated instructors who genuinely care about individual students and about collective citizenry. When a mind is lighted by learning, the glow of it dims the brightest lighthouse and furnishes a beacon in a world too often blinded by illiteracy.

The next time you want to hit a teacher for giving too much homework, a test on Friday, or more information in an hour's lecture than your brain could assimilate in three days, STOP! Remember your future is the prize waiting at the finish line of this race.

Nicholas Joseph Cugnot began experiments with steam powered vehicles. Later Henry Ford became a leader in mass production. During the 1890's automobiles were so new and strange that they were often shown in circuses.





Administration Strives To Make School Success

Clarence Gray, Superintendent of Schools

Whitey Ford, Asst. Superintendent of Schools

In this Bicentennial year, I am proud of America with all its splendor, heritage, and progress. I am equally proud of our Bixby boys and girls, for here is the clay of human greatness to be molded.

When the Tricentennial rolls around, our country will be even greater because you played an important part in its making. I salute the Bixby youth of 1976.

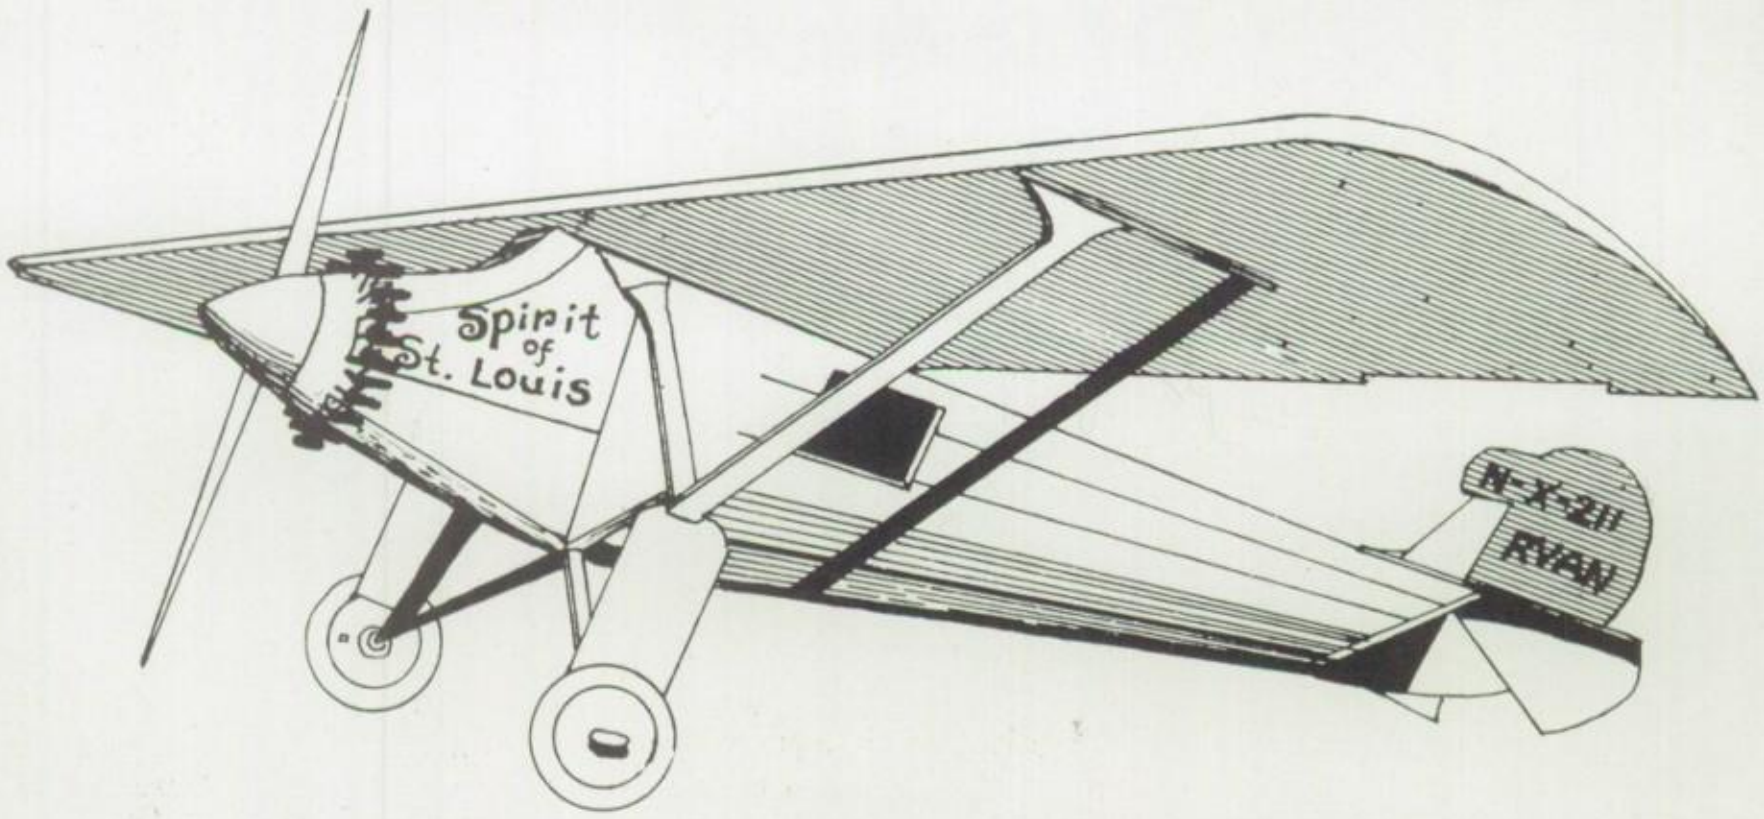
Race For Maturity

The never-ending drive for faster transportation has taken America from the horse and buggy to the car to the airplane. We can't seem to go fast enough. We race even with time, but time still out-distances us. Today is already the past. Tomorrow, the future, is here!

What about our future? Who are the leaders of tomorrow? The answer lies in the Jr. High students of today. Shaping and building their lives for tomorrow, these young men and women are using only the finest construction materials and designs. Their final architectural achievement may look too far out to our eyes, but the hectic future will force them into a life-style that complements their world.

They are capable of designing a promising tomorrow, and these jet-age draftsmen of today can hardly wait to draw the blueprints for a rocket-paced tomorrow.



The airplane, one of man's fastest methods of transportation, was successfully launched on December 17, 1903, from Kitty Hawk by Orville and Wilbur Wright. Their plane only traveled 120 feet, but it launched the Air Age. Most famous of all planes, Charles A. Lindberg's SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS, crossed the Atlantic in 33½ hours in 1927.

Freshmen

Success is counted sweetest
By those who ne'er succeed,
To comprehend a nectar
Requires sorest need.

Not one of all the purple host
Who took the flag today
Can tell the definition
So clear of victory

As he, defeated, dying,
On whose forbidden ear
The distant strains of triumph
Break, agonized and clear.

—Emily Dickinson

Top on the Junior High totem pole, the Freshmen learned early what losing meant in a football season that seemed to go on forever. Then finally, victory came in the final game to a class that had never quit believing that it would come.

A lot of things have come hard to this group; they have not been able to simply enter the race and know they'd be picked to win. But they have learned to excell with what they have, and they have learned the value of winning when it's been earned by hard work.

As they conclude Junior High and begin High school, they enter the race as winners.

Eighth

The summer brought a big change of scene to the 202 Eighth grade students whose last educational address had been the Middle School.

This year they took up residence in Junior High Hall with only Seventh and Ninth students to keep them company.

No sooner had they arrived than they began challenging their administrators, instructors and each other to get things done, and the staff was up to the challenge.

Everything from new concepts in advanced mathematics to an opportunity to write, direct and star in a play were thrown to the eager Eighth graders.

Music theory gave individuals a chance to express themselves, and art was offered as an advanced skill. Shop introduced carpentry and mechanical arts for boys and Home Ec. provided girls with new ideas in self-improvement.

Physical education grew up, too—just like the Eighth graders who stretched their bodies and minds to the limit and beyond during their middle year of Intermediate school.

Bruce Hammon and Steve Embry find talking to an office aide more interesting than class.

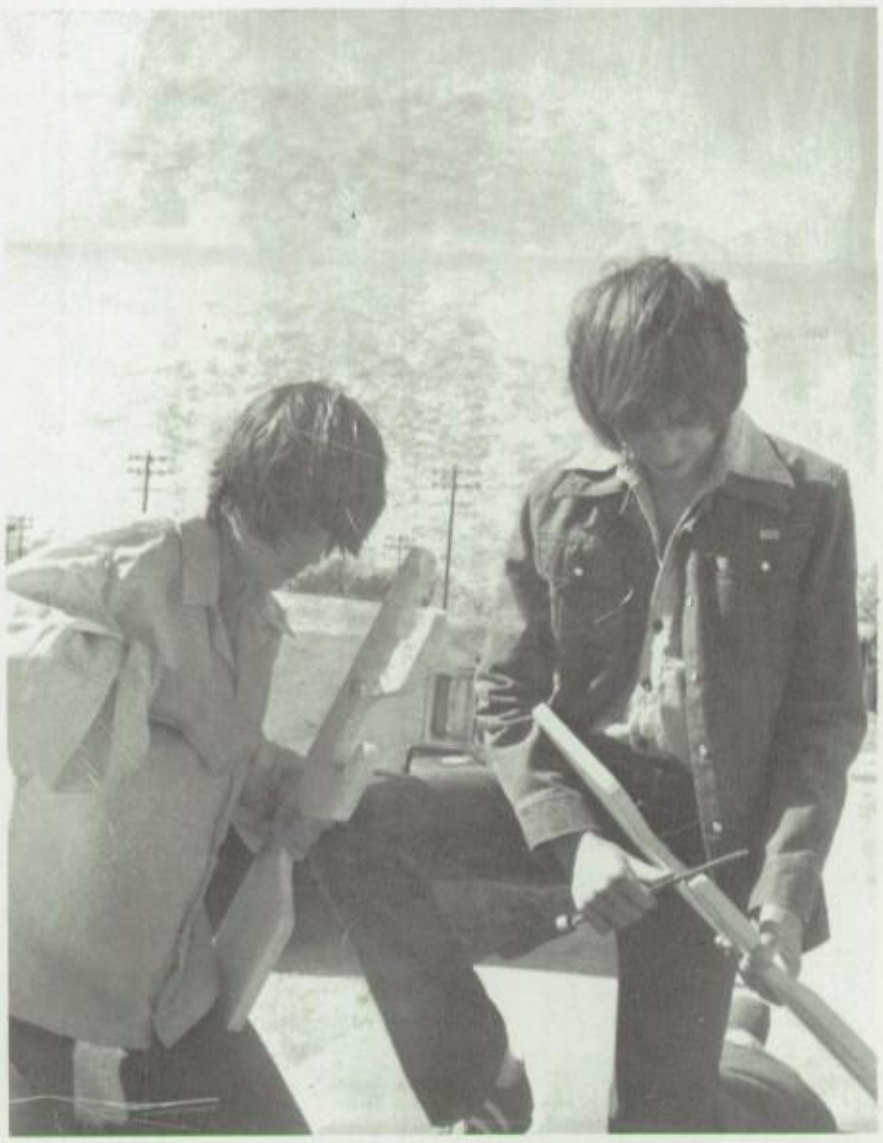
Race For Success



He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much.

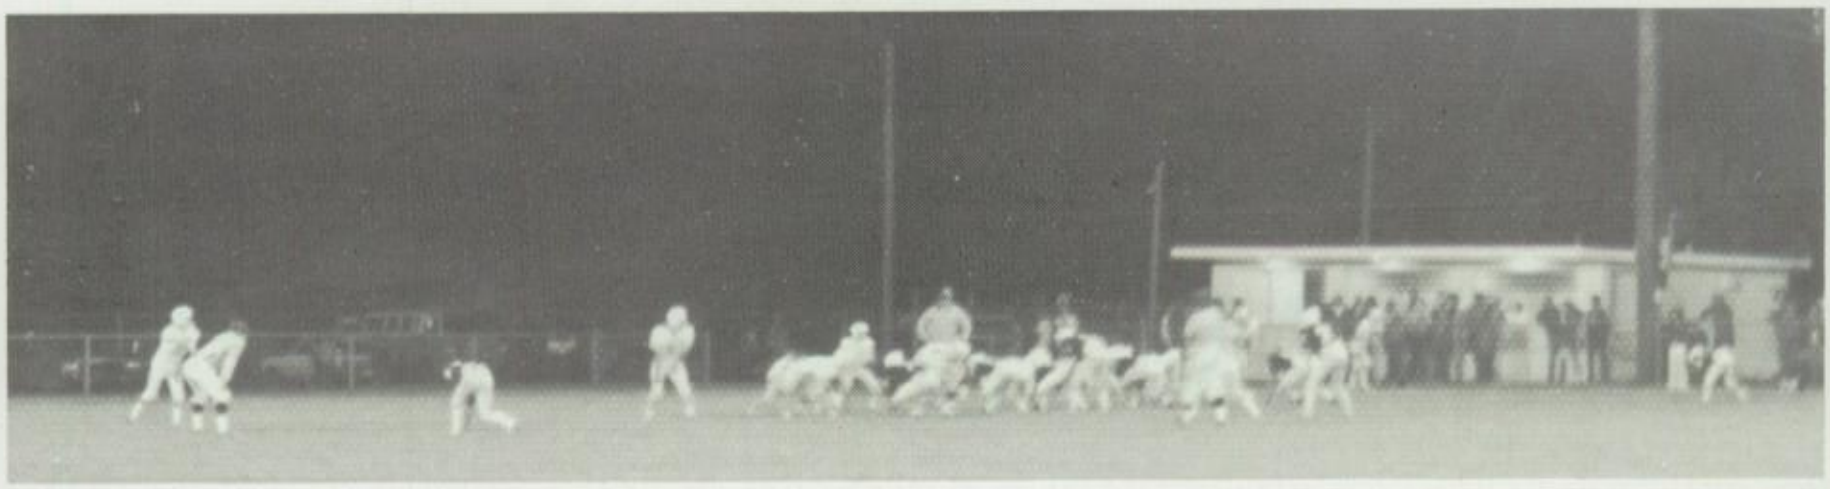
Bessie Anderson

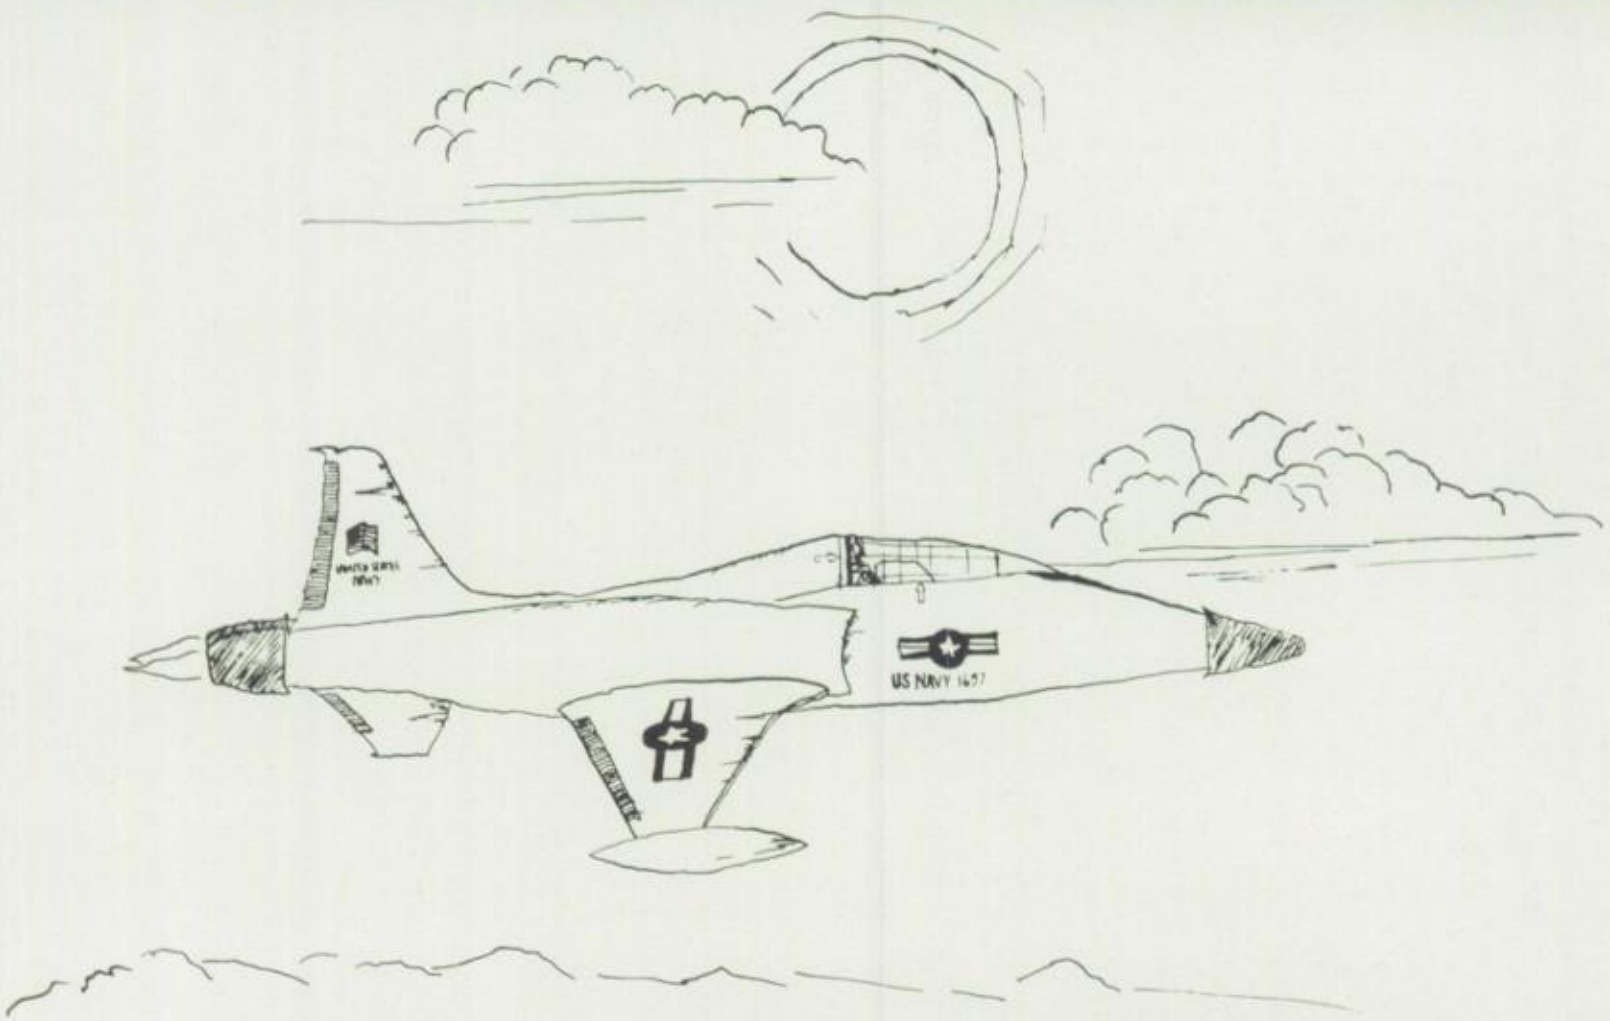
The Jr. High has come along way since last year. They have been moved to a new building and they also got a new P. E. facility equipped with a trampoline and mats. They learned to do many gymnastic tricks on the mats and some of the students got a chance to show their skills during half-time at one of the basketball games.

Along with the new buildings they also got many new teachers and a new assistant principal: David Hardy.

Their sports season could be counted a success for the most part. They participated in basketball, wrestling, and football. The eighth grade girls only lost one game, while the seventh grade won all their football games. The wrestlers sent three to Iowa for a wrestling festival.

The Jr. High has a more important role, they are preparing themselves for their future in not only High School, but in life.





The airplane, now called a jet, has made many changes since the bi-plane. They range in every size, shape, and color. They can hold up to 600 people and travel at speeds up to 7,000 miles per hour. What a change!

Race For Tomorrow

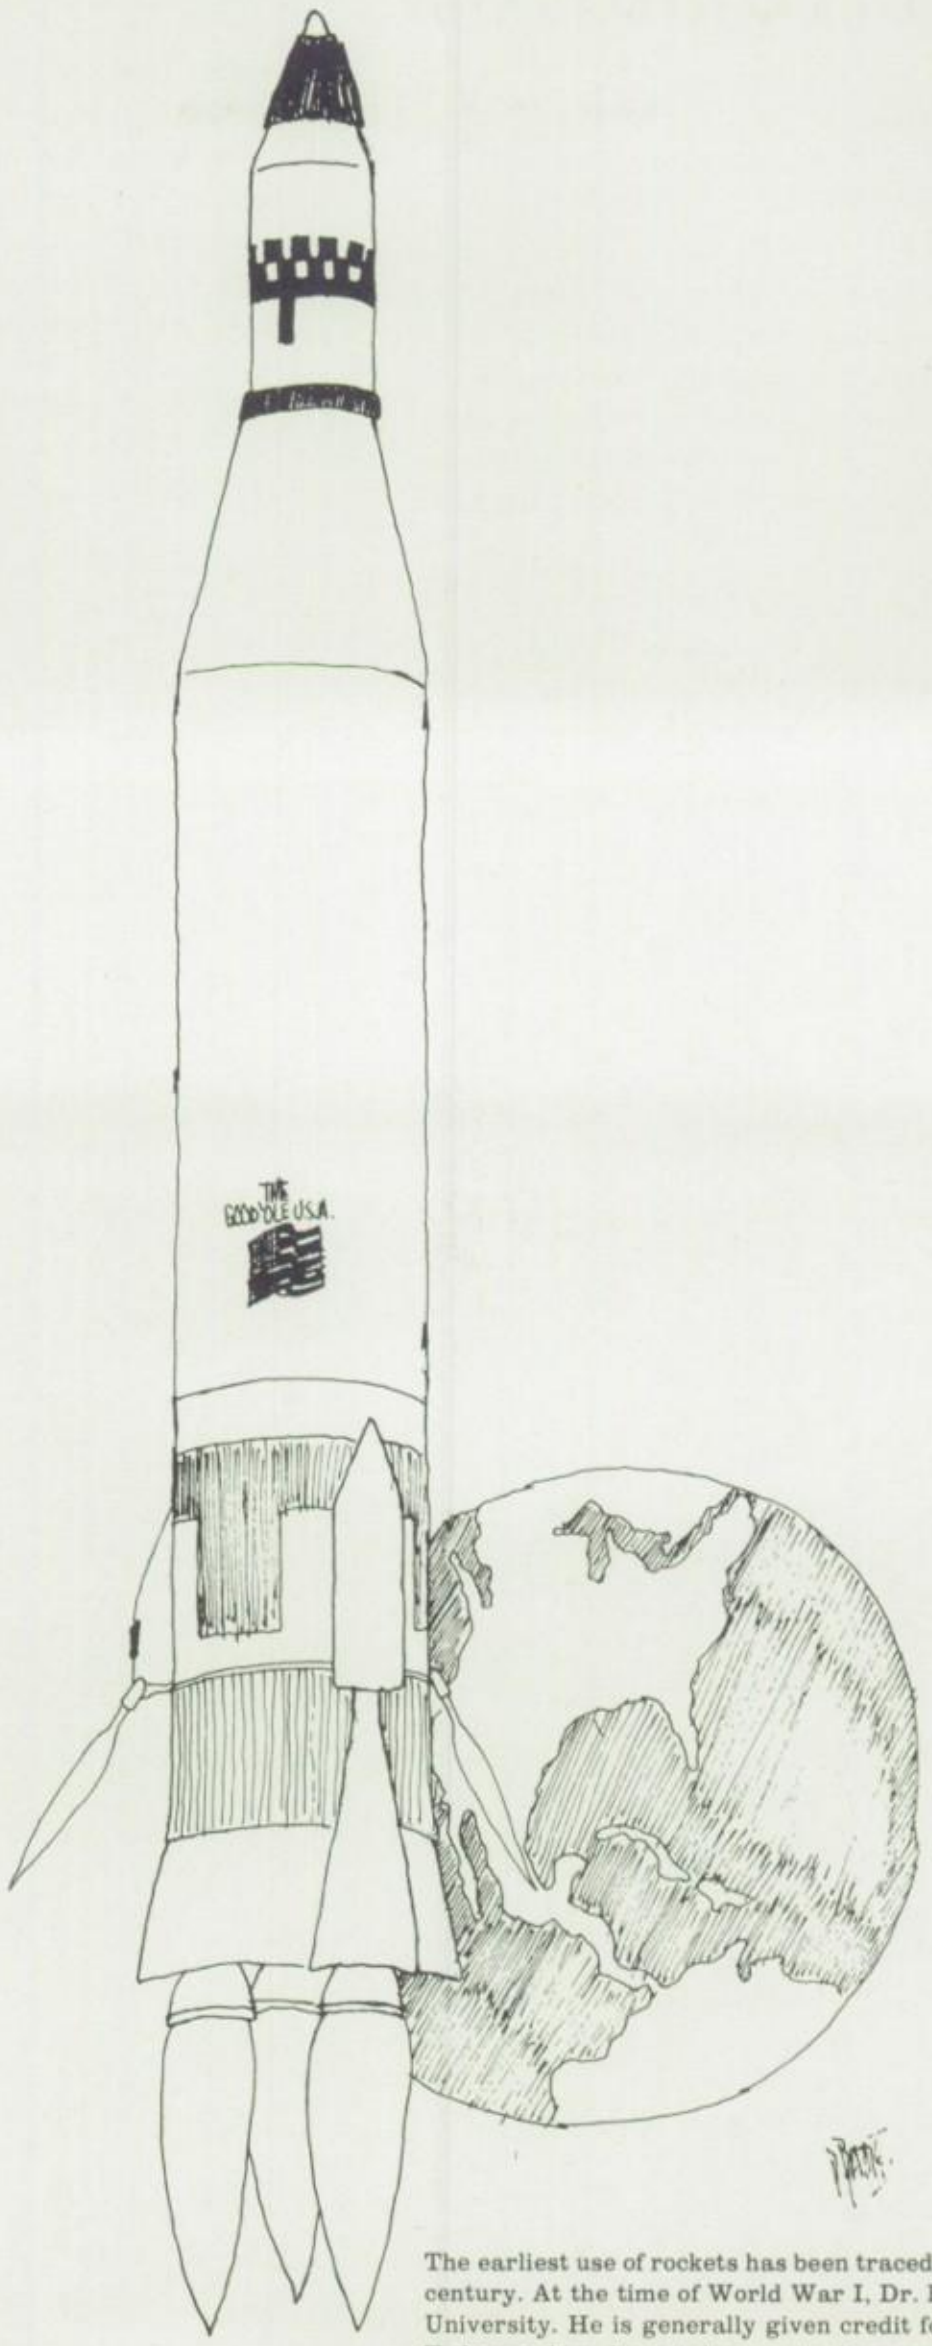
With doubt and dismay you are smitten,
You think there's no chance for you son?
Why, the best books haven't been written,
The best race hasn't been run.

Berton Braley

Our country has progressed 200 years through the efforts of Americans struggling to make ours the greatest nation. America may have a few bumps and bruises on her now, and she may have incurred some wrinkles through all the wars, crises and disturbances, but her torch is still upheld, and she stands proudly with eyes still clear, and heart still free.

The Great Race through our school has been run, and we have won. We broke the tape that declared us graduates, and our trophy is a diploma with a fresh-ink smell. We have crossed the finish line that marks the end of our high school career.

And what does the future hold? Will the Jules Verne world of rocketry and flying saucers replace the cars and motorcycles of today? Whatever comes, we're going to be ready to set out on a course that promises a future of happiness, because we're part of the Great Race of Mankind.



The earliest use of rockets has been traced back to the Chinese in the 13th century. At the time of World War I, Dr. R. H. Goddard studied at Clark University. He is generally given credit for the rocket features of today. Today rockets have taken us to the moon and back.

Sr. '77

Cheryl,
It seems
all of a sudden
we become closer,
& then all of a sudden
school's out!
(Well, now at least it's party time!)
Stay cool & I'll see ya next year,
Anne

P.S.-
Let's you,
Helen & me
get together
this summer.
437-4532

Cheryl,
Well it sure did miss you this year. I could have been wish all year. You probably Now stayed at home
you're staying some cool place and I'm sure a very successful
sure you'll stay good that way
Like Ya,
Russ Smith

Cheryl-
You're a real sweet girl
and a joy to have in class.
God bless in all that you do -
Mrs. Hyman

Cheryl,
I've enjoyed
having an English and Biology with
you. You really are sweet and fun to be with.
Audrey

Cheryl!
It's been a wild
year in world history.
I hope you all the luck in your next year classes.
Always Friend

Cheryl,
Oh glad we got to get to know each other better
this year. I think you're really a great chick. I can't believe how quickly
the year has gone around here! I don't even have to be in the party down
sometime this week. I can get you dinner. 366-8720 now
have any excuse not to call!
get a let going for you Cheryl; or and personality. Keep it that way!

Luv ya this summer.

Love ya lots,

Jandy

Cheryl,
I may be temperamental bus underneath I'm a horny human being - I love ya & I'd see too much of you you'll get in trouble (Foxy lady) Love,
Susse'll

Cheryl,
Well, we're through with
"Buggsy". Finally.
I just wish you could have been here all year long. Love, Paula Sr. '76

Cheryl,
Really been a great pleasure knowing you. See you next year, come
and see me in the summer!
Sr. '78
Love,
Linda
Thompson

Cheryl,
you are one of the coolest chicks
I know. I can trust you with my life cause I know you wouldn't tell a soul. I want to go out and party with you this summer cause we've never been anywhere together. I know it would be a trip and a half. You are really a cute and sweet person and you've got a lot to live for. Good luck with Raymond and all your prospects in the future. I'll be a lot of them. Have fun this summer and for gods sake keep in touch. My number's the phone book. Ha! Stay out of trouble if possibly can. Hope the rest of 78 goes up by as fast as this one did!

Love ya lots.
Kim
Sr. '78

Cheryl, What can I say but you're one of the sweetest and best looking girls
I know. It's been fun having you in Art and Home Ec and I'm glad we became better friends. Well I'll have to party sometime soon. Anyway, I hope that you get everything you want out of life cuz you deserve the best Stay the way you are Cheryl because you have a good future in store. Be good this summer and look me up.

Love,
KeAnn
